

Season's greetings

May your world be filled with peace, health, and good cheer this holiday season.

However you celebrate—Christmas, Hanukkah, or a peaceful winter break—we hope this time brings light, comfort, and joy. We're truly grateful to have you in our Central Ohio Plastic Surgery family.

Winter Skincare Spotlight: What's Trending (and Worth Your Time)

Winter is "barrier care" season so our patients are asking for simpler routines, deeper hydration, and products that keep post-procedure skin calm, bright, and protected.

Here's what we're recommending, and why it's showing up everywhere from our MediSpa to influencer channels to beauty editors' lists:

1. Barrier Repair Is the New Must-Have

Cold air and indoor heat can weaken the skin barrier, leading to redness, irritation, and dullness. A barrier-supporting moisturizer is especially important if you've had a peel, laser, or injectable treatment.

Our pick: skinbetter Science Alto Advanced Defense and Repair Serum

Improves skin brightness, repairs redness, tone, and texture.

2. Rich, Clinical-Grade Moisturizers Are Back

Lightweight summer formulas don't cut it in winter. Most of us will want to move toward richer textures that soothe and replenish without feeling heavy.

Our pick: Circadia AquaPorin™ Hydrating Cream

Boosts intracellular hydration and calms skin irritation caused by cold air and indoor heat.

3. Yes, You Still Need SPF

UV exposure doesn't disappear in winter—especially with reflective snow, cloudy days, and post-procedure photosensitivity.

Our pick: Sunforgettable® Total Protection® Brush-On Shield SPF 50

Lightweight, no residue, and perfect for sensitive, post-procedure skin.

4. Keep It Simple

Skincare routines are getting shorter, not longer. A gentle cleanser, barrier-friendly moisturizer, and daily SPF is often all your skin needs between treatments.

Not sure which products are right for your skin? Our aesthetician can help you build a winter routine that supports both comfort and results.
